Dear Sirs

I am currently in full time employment as a UK operations and project management role working nationally daily. I am a dedicated individual who enjoys working and looks forward to the coming day's challenges. I am very versatile and although my background is air conditioning, as a project manager I have gained considerable knowledge in a vast array of trades and industries. I am a very quick learner.

I am a team player and a team builder and enjoy the getting to know people and to help them grow also. I am looking for a company and a role that excites me and have wanted for some time now to join a company that primarily undertakes construction works. I have a very keen eye for detail and I am passionate that the finished item or project is better than the client expected. I always over deliver above people's expectations. I would love a career change and if possible would still allow me to be involved from a delivery point of view.

I am an excellent communicator and very easy to get on with and I believe that work should be enjoyed and the more you put into it, the more you get out of it and earn the respect of those around you.

If successful, I can attend interviews at a mutually convenient time.

Yours sincerely

Des Penny
